1/ Background

The European Week of Regions and Cities (#EURegionsWeek) is the biggest annual Brussels-based event dedicated to regional and urban policy. Its objective is to bring forward the place-based and territorial aspects of the Cohesion Policy.

The #EURegionsWeek is a platform to discuss common challenges for Europe’s regions and cities and examine possible solutions by bringing together a diverse community of speakers and participants. It aims to be an open and collaborative event providing neutral spaces in Brussels and all around Europe for capacity-building, learning and exchange of experience, and facilitating the cooperation and networking between regions and cities. The event offers a wide range of activities, from innovative and interactive sessions to networking activities and traditional workshops, which you implement as a partner.

The #EURegionsWeek aims to offer a memorable, impactful and comprehensive experience for partners and attendees. The organisers are determined to continuously improve its offer to ensure that each edition is better than the last one.

The event organisers are the European Commission’s Directorate-General for Regional and Urban Policy (DG REGIO) and the European Committee of the Regions (CoR).

The 22nd edition of the #EURegionsWeek will take place from Monday 7 to Thursday 10 October 2024.

Partners interested in organising a session are asked to carefully read and follow this guide when applying and contributing to the event, and to comply with the indicated deadlines and requirements.

Selected partners will be responsible for organising their session. Subject to applicable rules and availability of resources, the event organisers may be able to sponsor/reimburse part of the travel and accommodation expenses.

2/ What’s new?

In line with the 2023 edition, the EUREgionsWeek2024 will deliver a programme specifically designed for partners and participants to maximise their involvement. There is a deliberate and conscious decision to streamline and focus on the programme. This will inevitably reduce the number of partners’ sessions. Organisers have therefore structured the event in order to enhance participation and interactivity and upgraded the significance of the EURegionsWeek close to you sessions (former side events) and Regional Partnerships.

The venues will also allow participants to easily move from one building to another:

- A lighter programme with around 80 high quality and engaging sessions;
- Focus on partners’ capacity to work in partnership;
- EUREgionsWeek close to you (former “side events”) brings the EUREgionsWeek all over Europe;
- Closely located event venues, which allow participants to move easily around the EU area;
- Innovative session formats in addition to the more traditional ones.
3/ Themes

The motto of the 22nd edition of the #EURegionsWeek is: “Empowering communities”.

Under this motto, the edition will focus on four themes:

THEME 1 – “COMPETITIVENESS AND CONVERGENCE: TWO SIDES OF THE SAME COIN”
Cohesion Policy enabling the Single Market to expand and thrive

EU’S role in harnessing competitive forces while promoting convergence for the benefit of its citizens can be read as an interlinked dynamic

While competitiveness encourages individual or collective excellence, convergence emphasises the importance of working together and the collective benefits that come with unity, cooperation, shared goals and common ground. Through convergence, one can create something greater than the sum of its parts.

Sessions under this theme should therefore highlight achievements of the 20 years anniversary of the enlargement (in concrete fields) as well as how the enlargement and Cohesion Policy in general benefit all countries, including net payers who get their markets of new consumers and investments largely broadened and clearly benefitted from the expanding competitiveness and convergence.

THEME 2 – “REGIONS STRENGTHENING EUROPEAN DEMOCRACY”
Local and regional decision-making empowering Europeans and strengthening our Union

Challenging the one-size-fits-all approach

The theme implies recognising the crucial role that regions play in promoting/enforcing decisions that have direct impacts on citizens. Through this theme, we acknowledge regions as strong democratic actors and instruments, as they are a more tangible level of political representation for citizens than the national or European level.
Thinking of regions as the link between local, national and European policy and the lived experience of citizens also means thinking about the decentralisation of decision-making. This theme therefore invites us to consider how we help regions so they can enforce and strengthen European democracy. Through the question “what are we doing to help regions foster European democracy”, we also question how to balance local autonomy and centralisation, how to distribute funds fairly, how to reduce disparities in all the EU’s regions, how to involve citizens more, how to adapt infrastructure and services to local needs, how to promote cooperation between regions, for citizens to feel seen, heard, involved and understood in their singularity.

THEME 3 - “SMART AND SUSTAINABLE GROWTH FOR REGIONS”

AI, digitalisation and greening are changing Europe’s regions and cities.

Strategic and sustainable approaches to regional development

“Smart growth” means planning and designing regions in ways that are efficient, innovative and eco-friendly. This theme evokes well-connected cities and regions that prioritise mixed land use, that are green, resilient, and economically sufficient. It implies the preservation of natural resources: regions that meet the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs. Discussing smart and sustainable growth consequently involves discussing the optimisation of urban density and land use, the development of sustainable transportation systems, our ability to ensure affordable housing, promote environmental sustainability, stimulate economic development while enhancing resilience to climate change. It also of course implies the integration of technology into urban planning, and this comes with ensuring and establishing supportive policy and regulatory frameworks. Most importantly, it should also encompass how modern industries are shaping and will be shaping our cities and regions more than we can imagine today.

THEME 4 - “REGIONS GOT TALENT”

Building, retaining and attracting skills and capacities.

Each region has unique skills, capabilities and resources that can be developed and showcased

Regional talents can include the specific professional skills of a local workforce, available natural resources, cultural traditions, specialised industries and other assets specific to a given region.

This theme underlines the importance of recognising and nurturing local talents to stimulate economic, cultural and social development. The emphasis should be put on the importance of education and educational exchanges of both students and teachers of all educational levels.

Fostering regional talent can help build a strong local identity, promote the growth of local businesses and foster cultural diversity. It is in line with a more decentralised approach to governance and policy, where decisions are made considering the specific characteristics of each region, thus promoting more balanced and sustainable development.

The lead partner is responsible for briefing the speakers and the moderator and providing them with the necessary support. The moderator should make sure that each contribution keeps to the allotted time and that the floor is passed smoothly from speaker to speaker. The moderator/facilitator should help participants to understand their common objective and plan how to achieve these objectives during the Hackathon and Participatory Lab sessions. The facilitator remains neutral.

- Participants cannot be charged a fee for any session. The event partners are not allowed to conduct commercial activities during the sessions.

In case these sessions are organised in other countries outside the EU, applicants and coordinators commit themselves to comply with the GDPR rules, if the processing of personal data concerns data subjects who are in the Union. Otherwise, they should comply with data protection rules in place in the country where the event takes place and inform the participants accordingly.

- Regional partnerships at their own venues: coordinators will have access to the list of registered participants to their sessions on the EURegionsWeek platform. Coordinators commit themselves to process the personal data of the registered participants on behalf of the EURegionsWeek organisers (European Commission, (European Commission, Directorate-General for Regional and Urban Policy) and the European Committee of the Regions) only for the purpose of the EURegionsWeek event and to delete any copy of the list of registered participants as soon as their EURegionsWeek session is over.

In line with their commitment to ensuring optimal visibility for the event, the selected partners agree to adopt a common branding, including the EU logo. 13/ Greening our event

More than ever, the EURegionsWeek 2024 aims to be as sustainable and carbon-neutral as possible. We count on the participants and event partners to help make this happen.

The EURegionsWeek will be as paperless and as plastic free as possible.

Only sustainable certified venues and catering options will be envisaged by the European Commission and the European Committee of the Regions. Event organisers will apply the Reduce, Reuse and Recycle principle with furniture and promotional material, and commit to offsetting the environmental impact of the event.

By applying, event partners commit to minimising the environmental impact of their session, as well as to respecting the paperless and plastic-free guidance received from the event organiser.
14/ The EURegionsWeek close to you

As a novelty of the 2024 edition, the sessions previously known as side events are now referred to as EURegionsWeek close to you and benefit from enhanced visibility. EURegionsWeek close to you sessions can take place all over Europe between 7 October and 30 November 2024 and have to be thematically linked to the EURegionsWeek2024.

Organisers are entirely responsible for the content, organisation, management of their event (i.e. the online platform if any and participants registration, processing of personal data, the agenda and invitation of speakers and moderator, etc.) and promotional actions (via social media, press, and web). The #EURegionsWeek organisers may in no way be considered responsible for any organisational, logistical or content-related aspects of the EURegionsWeek close to you sessions.

Application is open from 28 February until 2 April.
